PRESIDENT AND MRS. ROOSE-VELT DINE WITH SEC. WILSON.

Ambassador and Mme. Creel Entertained—Timely Personal Notes.

The Secretary of Agriculture was host last night for the President and Mrs. Roosevelt at his annual dinner in their honor. Mrs. Dolliver, wife of Senator Dolliver, presided for the Secretary, whose other guests were Senator and Mrs. Spooner, Senator Dolliver, ex-Postmaster General and Mrs. James A. Gary of Baltimore, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Pinchot, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Garfield, Representative The new spring styles in and Mrs. James R. Garfield, Representative and Mrs. Hull, Representative and Mrs. Walter I. Smith, Representative and Mrs. Franklin E. Brooks, Representative and Mrs. Lacey, Representative and Mrs. James R. Mann. Representative and Mrs. Graff. R. Mann, Representative and Mrs. Graff, Prof. and Mrs. Magie, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Curtis, Miss Shaw, Miss Ridgely and Mr. Jasper Wilson. The dinner was given at the New Willard and the table was profusely decorated with pink roses and white lilacs.

> Mrs. Alexander R. Shepherd, who is spending the winter in this city, was hostess yesterday at a most delightful afternoon reception in honor of the ambassador of Mexico and Madame Creel, the two families having been warm friends for many years in Mexico, and their meeting again among mutual acquaintances here is a most pleasing incident to both. Dr. and Mrs. Merchant, Mr. and Mrs. Quintard, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Shepherd, Mr. and Mrs. John Conness Shepherd and Miss Barbara Brodie, Mrs. Shepherd's tamily party, with Mrs. John W. Foster, assisted the hostess, while Mrs. Theodore W. Noyes and Mrs. Charles Bradley did the honors of the tea table. Madame Creel was most elegantly gowned in gray panne velvet, the corsage trimmed with steel-beaded tulle, and wore some beautiful diamond ornaments. All the floral decorations, and especially the arrangement of the tea table, were in the Mexican colors—red, white and green—and the sweetmeats followed the same color Few handsomer entertainments have marked the winter than that last night at the Japanese embassy, when the ambassador and Viscountess Aoki welcomed a company, in which the official and diplo-matic world met the acquaintances of the hosts among the residents of the capital. The large rooms so well known to society were decorated with flowers and palms, and an orchestra played throughout the evening. The hostess, who was richly gowned in a princess lace robe over cream satin, completed her tollette by wearing several rich diamond and pearl ornaments. Countess Hatzfeldt, her daughter, was dressed in red tulle trimmed in the bodice with gold lace. A diamond tiara and a diamond and pearl collarette, two as fine ornaments as are owned in Washington, were the finishing touches.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Taft, who have Mr. and Mrs. Charles Taft staying with them, gave a dinner last night when their guests were Senator and Mrs. Dryden, Senator and Mrs. Hopkins, Senator and Mrs. Scott, Justice and Mrs. Harian, Chairman and Mrs. Shonts, Gen. and Mrs. Barry, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh C. Wallace, Mr. ad Miss Maury.

The Norwegian minister and Mme. Hauge were dinner hosts last night, their company including the Russian ambassador and Baroness Rosen, the minister from the Netherlands and Mme. Van Swinderen, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Cowles, Mrs. Rob-ert W. Patterson, Commander and Mrs. Hebbinghaus of the German embassy, Assistant Secretary and Mrs. Huntington Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. William Slater, Miss Gwynn, Court Szebenyi of the Austrian embassy and Col. Bromwell.

The Secretary of Commerce and Labor and Mrs. Straus began a series of din-ners last night, when their guests were Gen. and Mrs. Gillespie, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Chadwick, Lieut. and Mrs. Timmons, Miss Le Bourgeois, Mr. and Mrs. Shafer of New York, Mr. Goldsborough, Prince Koudacheff of the Russian embassy, Mr. Radowitz of the German embassy and Mr.

Gen. Anson Mills gave another dinner last night, when his guests were Senator Levi Ankeny, Gen. John M. Wilson, Chief Justice Seth Shepard, Mr. octo Tittman, Justice Seth Shepard, Mr. Octo Tittman, Mr. Charles C. Glover, Gen. George B. Davis, Gen. George L. Andrews, Gen. Maxwell V. Z. Woodhull, Gen. Fifty years ago today, in county Farmanagh, Ireland, Mr. and Mrs. James Wood, whose home is at 231 C street northeast, this city, were married, and this eveneast, this city, were married, and this evening an appropriate golden wedding anniversary celebration will be held at their home.
All the friends of the couple will be present, and they will include members of Farragut Post, No. 10, G. A. R., and Union Lodge, I. O. O. F., to which Mr. Wood belongs, and the Woman's Relief Corps to which his wife belongs which his wife belongs.

The marriage of the couple in "the old country" was celebrated in the customary way, and today they like to look back on way, and today they like to look back on the events of that day, many of which would seem so strange in this country. One of the things they did was to invite to the wedding their friends who had fast horses, the bride and groom vying with each other in their efforts to get the best horses. After the wedding ceremony at the church the guests raced a distance of two miles to the home of the couple, where a man was waiting with a bottle of whisky for the winner. The bride or groom was for the winner. The bride or groom was the winner of the contest according to whether or not one of her men or one of his reached the house first.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood landed in New York April 30, 1857, and spent eight months in Philadelphia. They then moved to Indiana at a place near Evansville, where they lived until 1882, when they came to this city. Mr. Wood was first a member of the Capitol police force, later a messenger at the Senate, and about nine years ago was ap-pointed to a position in the government printing office, where he is now employed. Mr. Wood was born in 1843 and his wife manufacturers' prices who was formerly Miss Mary Mitchell, was born a year or two later, the exact date of her birth having never been recorded. Both are strong and well in spite of their long and busy lives.

In Darkest America Brigadier Alex M. Damon, provincial commander of the Salvation Army for the eastern district, with headquarters at Philadelphia, is in the city, and will give an il-at 8 o'clock. The brigadier had charge of the relief work of the army for many years, and is considered one of the best officers of the organization in this country. During the coal famine of 1902 he opened eighteen relief stations in Chicago, and while the city council was passing resolutions regarding the situation and wondering what could be done. These relief stations, it is stated, provided over 20,000 families with coal that winter, and Damon was given great commendation by the press. Dr. Ferguson, pastor of Wesley Chapel, will preside at the meeting.

The Salvation Army has been in this city for the past twenty years, with headquarters at 930 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Adjutant W. S. Quirk and wife are in charge, assisted by Lieut. Jones. The army has also an Industrial Home at 121 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, where they shelter and give work to twenty-five men. Adjutant Crawford is in charge. of the relief work of the army for many

The Italian government has sent troops and assistance to Marina di Catanzaro, the fishing village on the Calabrian coast, where a tidal wave destroyed 122 houses and rendered the population homeless and destitute. The conditions there are made more severe because of incessant rains.

CHORNTON. In sad but loving remembrance of our dear daughter and sister, MAY F. THORN-TON (nee Cadington), who entered into rest one year ago today—February 13, 1906. One year ago today, dear May,
God called you to His throne.
We have no grief or fear today,
For heaven has claimed its own.
BY HER MOTHER.

And now, though our circle is broken,
A voice we loved is stilled,
We hold as a glorious token
The bright hope of meeting again.
BY HER SISTER.
